

Year 9 Week beginning: 8th June 2020

Hello,

I have set you some tasks on being able to write sentences for different purposes.

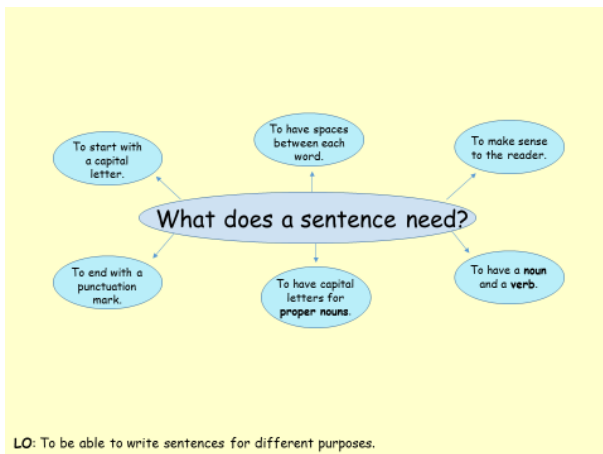

Work can be completed electronically (in Word) or handwritten. Then, it can be emailed to me via the email below. For the handwritten work, you can take a photo of the handwritten work and send it in this way.

Do not worry if do not understand all of the tasks, do what you can. If you have any questions about his work, or you would like to send the work, please email:

LO: To be able to write sentences for different purposes.

Word Classes

There were some tricky terms on the last slide so let's quickly remind ourselves what these terms are:

 Noun - the name of an object or thing

 Verb - a doing or action word

 Proper noun - the name of a person, a place, the title of a specific object, days of the week, months of the year

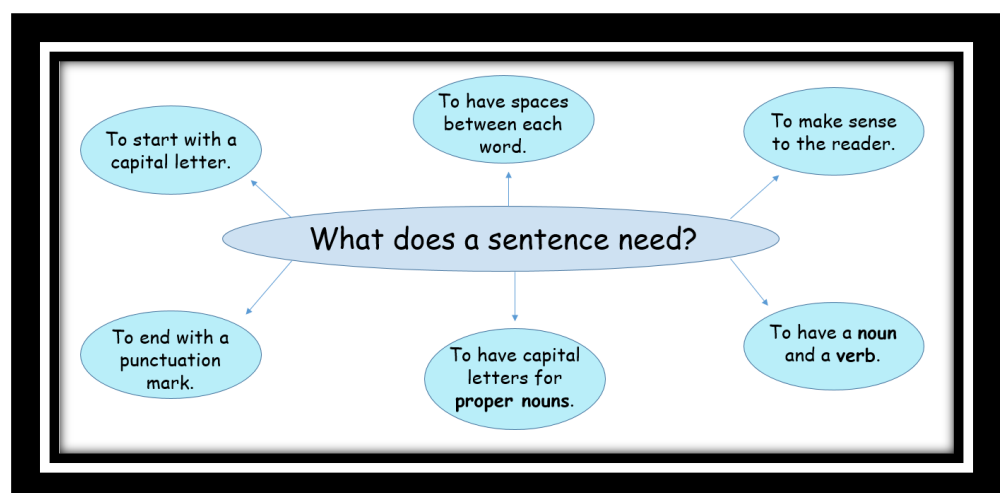

LO: To be able to write sentences for different purposes.

1. For each of the word classes (as above) write down 3 examples.

	1	2	3
Noun
Verb
Proper noun

2. Write a full sentence about what this lady is doing.

Remember to include all of the things a sentence needs.

3. Read about the different types of sentences and complete the tasks on the PowerPoint slide.

What are the functions of a sentence?

Function means purpose - what reasons do we have to use sentences for our readers or listeners?

- 1) Make a statement
- 2) Ask a question
- 3) Give a command
- 4) Show shock or surprise (exclamation)

LO: To be able to write sentences for different purposes.

Statements

- Statements are sentences which tell you something.
- They end with a full stop.

A rainbow has 7 colours.

Rainbows are beautiful to look at.

LO: To be able to write sentences for different purposes.

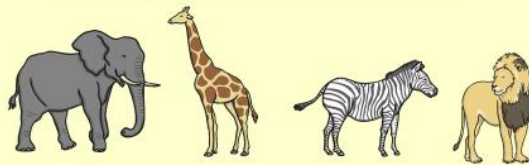

Task:

Write one statement sentence to describe one of these animals.

Any sentence is correct as long as it tells you:

- something about the animal
- starts with a capital letter and ends in a full stop.

For example: The elephant has two tusks.

Questions

- Questions are sentences that ask something.
- They usually start with a question word - who, what, where, when, why, will, how, can, could, should.
- They end with a question mark.

What did you have for lunch today?

Please can I have a yoghurt?

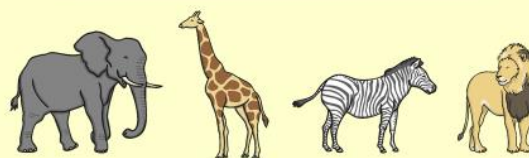

LO: To be able to write sentences for different purposes.

Task: Write one question sentence to ask about one of these animals.

Any sentence is correct as long as:

- it asks a question
- starts with a capital letter and ends in a question mark.

For example: How fast can a zebra run?

LO: To be able to write sentences for different purposes.

Commands

- Commands are sentences that tell you to do something.
- They are bossy and often quite short sentences.
- Commands are often found as instructions (recipes, how to make things and so on).
- They end with a full stop or an exclamation mark if the command is urgent.

Help me please.

Stop doing that!

LO: To be able to write sentences for different purposes.

Task:

Write one command sentence to tell someone, or one of the animals what to do.

Any sentence is correct as long as:

- is bossy and says what to do
- starts with a capital letter and ends with a full stop or exclamation mark.

For example: Lion do not chase the giraffe.
Watch out, the lion is going to eat you!

LO: To be able to write sentences for different purposes.

Exclamations

- Exclamations are sentences that express shock or surprise.
- They usually start with 'how' or 'what', but are not asking a question.
- Exclamation sentences always include a verb (doing or action word).
- They end with an exclamation mark!

How kind of him to do that!

What a dangerous place to climb!

LO: To be able to write sentences for different purposes.

Task:

Write one exclamation sentence to show shock or surprise about one of these animals.

Any sentence is correct as long as:

- it shows shock or surprise
- starts with a capital letter
- Includes either 'what' or 'how'
- Includes a verb
- Includes an exclamation mark

For example: How did the giraffe beat the lion!
