The Government should make sure my rights are respected.

The Government should make sure the rights in the UNCRF are available to me.

For example - The Government can't take away my rights whenever they want to, they have to honour the rights which are set out in the UNCRC.

How do human rights (including children's rights) help to make life better for all humanity?

How many of these did you get?

- They are about protection
- They set out what everybody SHOULD have or be entitled to
- They are a reminder to governments and individuals
- They should make everyone get fair treatment
- They are about equality and against discrimination
- Where you live shouldn't make a difference
- They can help people and governments see where improvement is needed
- If people know they have rights, they can claim their rights
- What else did you come up with?

An adult who helps me understand my rights is called a ????? ??????

The Rule of Law

Your children's rights are in law. The Government should make sure the rights in the UNCRC are available to you, and they cannot be taken away.
