

Useful website resources

WEBSITE / ADDRESS	DESCRIPTION
NASA Robotics Education Project	The Robotics Clearing House can be regarded as the educational arm of NASA. They select on-line educational materials and carefully review them. Work that is approved by the independent reviewers committee can be viewed by the public on the NASA RCC website which promotes robotics and other technologies. Links to www.technologystudent.com can be viewed on this site.
The World Association of Technology Teachers	A detailed site for Technology teachers. Sample schemes of work, lesson plans, OFSTED advice, departmental documentation, international partnership, free membership, members articles, free advice from Advisor Members, links to suppliers and much more.
The Times 100	An excellent site for technology, economics or business studies pupils and teachers. Packed full of exceptional resources.
http://www.instructables.com/	Excellent Technology Site - a collaboration of creative minds putting their passions to work.
www.datasheetarchive.com	A search engine for electronic component datasheets.
Science, Technology and Engineering Site	This site has been developed by teachers in Melbourne, Australia as a resource for Systems and Materials students.
Design and Technology on the Web	A host of ideas and information tips for pupils at Key Stage 3 and 4
Design Technology Resource Page	An excellent collection of resources for Design and Technology teachers and pupils
www.sda-uk.org	Excellent Sites promoting sustainable technology
www.stepin.org
www.PaperToys.com	A site dedicated to making paper / card models. Appears to be an interesting resource.
www.robot.org.uk	A site listing suppliers of components for making robots and similar mechanisms. Lists of practical robot building books, magazines and CD ROMs. Resources for teachers, pupils, students and designers.

